

BEHIND THE COLLECTION

At Sandqvist, we produce stylish and long-lasting everyday bags. We always do this in a way that is fair to everyone involved and with utmost care for the environment. This means taking responsibility for the impact of our products throughout their life cycle, on both people and the planet.

The summer nights in northern Scandinavia are short and bright. It's a magical time, especially the short moment when the sun turns and starts to rise and everything starts over again. It's mystical and beautiful, quiet and still. Animals are on the move. The birds are quiet, but the sound of an owl sometimes breaks the silence. You imagine seeing things that are not there. It's a mix of melancholy and hope.

This time, the hour between night and dawn is sometimes called "Hour of the wolf", a term coined by Ingemar Bergman, who made a horror movie in 1968 with the same name.

We borrowed from this magical moment for our Spring/Summer 23 collection. Distant color tones gets blurred or faded. Dew makes details and color of moss, stones, plants, deep and vivid.

OUR RESPONSIBILITY

At Sandqvist we strive to re-use waste materials in all of our products, and extend the life of our bags through our in-store repair shops.

Our recycled Nylon is made using post-industry waste from discarded nylon-based products. Old clothing, fishing nets and carpets are shredded and turned into an entirely new material.

We use 100% organic cotton sourced directly from small-scale farmers. The weave is tight and dense, resulting in a thick and heavy-duty material.

Sustainability is a promise for future generations. As a company we strive to put sustainability first in everything we do, from product development to working environment.

Sandqvist has a strict policy on chemicals setting requirements on both chemicals that can remain in the end product, but also on chemicals used throughout the production.

Our recycled polyester gives a new lease of life to PET-bottles: a waste material that is not naturally biodegradable. This reduces the climate impact of the material by 50%.

All leather used by Sandqvist comes from tanneries rated Gold or Silver for their environmental work by the Leather Working Group. LWG is an international organization working to improve environmental performance in the leather industry.

Our Urban Outdoor series is formed from a heavy-duty recycled polyester. It's water-resistant and known for its durability, making it the perfect partner for embracing the elements.

Our staff regularly visit all our suppliers to ensure good working conditions. In addition to this, external audits are commissioned to find out what can be improved upon.
